BIG BALLOON IS BOUNCING BALL OF FIRE

SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.—Unprecedented thrills were furnished the thousands who attended the Livermore Stockmen's Rodeo program on last night when a big balloon with a mile ascension and parachute drop was to have been made, caught fire and was completely destroyed.

From its moorings as it caught fire the massive canvas envelope started to rise and roll along the ground with the wind. By this time the flames had completely spread over the fabric and as the mass of flames rolled toward a corral of wild horses a stampede was threatened.

Quick action on the part of a group of rodeo riders resulted in the horses being saved. The balloon rising some 100 feet from the ground, was carried over the corral by the wind and burst into a ball of fire. In this field hundreds of dollars' worth of hay was stacked and waiting for the hay.

HAY STACKS IN DANGER.—The balloon fell into the field within 100 feet of a large haystack containing several tons of hay. The balloon had already burned itself out, however, and the danger was past.

A small blaze of the hay stubble started by the balloon was quickly extinguished by the town's chemical fire engine. The haystacks have been brought to the rodeo grounds in anticipation of a fire.

The balloon was scheduled for an ascension on July 4 as a special feature of the rodeo program. Captain B. A. Van Tassel and Lieutenant C. M. Williams were to have gone up in the balloon. Owing to a stiff breeze Friday, the ascension was postponed until Saturday, and again postponed to Sunday for the same reason.

Although there was a slight wind Sunday afternoon it was thought that the balloon could be filled and the flight made. When the massive lighter than air flier was about two-thirds filled with the hot air and smoke generated by an oil fire in its center, the wind blew the fabric to one side, causing the flames to touch it and start the fire.

RIDING CONTESTS HELD.—The riding contests at the rodeo yesterday reached a higher standard than either of the two days before. The finals of each event presented for riders the best of the two days.

The thrill of the old time horse races was found anew in the racing events, and some of the finest horsemanship in the State made its appearance on the track. The riding according to the committee in charge, has shown that the general public is still as enthusiastic about well bred animals as in the old days when every town and hamlet had its driving club.

The bulldozing of steers from a racing auto proved the thriller of the program. Out of 10 steers that followed a speeding automobile with the bulldozer holding their horns and riding on the automobile's running board, five were successfully secured by the riders.

According to estimates of the crowds on the three days, over $20,000 was taken in for the fund for the soldiers' memorial park and to provide for the third annual rodeo which they are saying already will be even bigger and better than the one just past.

Bodies of 3 Drowned Persons Recovered

SPOKANE, Wash., July 7.—The bodies of the three persons who lost their lives by drowning by the overturning of a launch on Twin Lakes, Idaho, Saturday night, were discovered at 10 o'clock yesterday. They are James E. Burns, aged 37, and Chester L. Graves, who came here from Kansas about two weeks ago.

Two persons were in the eighteen-foot boat about 150 feet from shore when the accident occurred. DeCoy, who was reported missing, was among the rescued.

Tummyache Cure Under Ban; Ginger Drinks Are Barred

"Here, my child, take this little cup of cure and your stomachache will be quite all gone."
"What is it, mother?"
"Peppermint, of course, my dear."
"But, mother, have you got a doctor's prescription?"
—From precocious sayings of the child of 1919 A. P. (After Prohibition).

Willie probably had been listening to a conversation in a drugstore, for many a similar one has been heard there since last Monday. Essence of ginger and peppermint come under the ban—one can get a stagger on if one persists in their consumption—it requires a doctor's prescription to obtain them.

Of course, peppermint—one could get quite a lot for 10 cents, but the report is spread that doctors do not prescribe extensively for such a sum.

There is one solution—don't have a stomachache!

Aside from this sad affair—and perhaps the anti-prohibitionists are exaggerating a bit—the dry days spread their blight over many a cafe in the bay district yesterday.

It was the quietest Sunday for the cafes in the history of the town, it is said; not since the first gold miner with his pick arrived have the inns held such a small crowd, nor so little enthusiasm. This was true, particularly of the Bohemian restaurants. Without wine, the dinner seemed to have lost all its appeal. Even the Italians themselves remained home for dinner, where a supply of the "good red wine" was available. The Italian cafe keepers sighed and longed for sunny Sicily.

SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. WEILBY

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie L. Weilby, wife of W. H. Weilby, local car dealer and local real estate operator, were held this afternoon from the chapel of a local undertaking company. The memorial exercises were conducted by Rev. Francis J. McAlpin, pastor of the First Congregational church.

Mrs. Weilby died Saturday night at Fabiola hospital following an illness of several months. Mrs. Weilby was born in California, where her name is included with the pioneers. Her parents came from Scotland to follow the trail of gold and establish their home in Oakland. The wedding of Miss Jennie L. Easton and W. H. Weilby was a notable event of many years ago. Their residence has always been in this city. Mrs. Weilby was active in carrying on the work of the West Oakland Home and contributed largely to the support of the orphans who came under its care. As a member of the club and the home club, she was well known in local club circles.

When Hotel Oakland was opened several years ago, the Weilbys were among the first to take up their abode here. They divided their time between the city and Alameda which was Mrs. Weilby's favorite resort. Mrs. Weilby is survived by her husband, W. H. Weilby, a sister, Mrs. Maggie Wyman, and a brother, P. Easton.

Prepare New Charge Against Chauffeur

The district attorney's office is finding it difficult to have William McAlpin, chauffeur for the telephone company, punished for running into a crowd of persons waiting for a train on Seventh street, between Broadway and Washington streets, June 25.

McAlpin was tried this morning in Police Judge George Samuels' court on a complaint charging violation of that ordinance which prohibits an auto driver from stopping within ten feet of a car or train. He was cleared of this charge, when it was proven that McAlpin was going in the opposite direction of the train.

Judge Samuels immediately ordered the district attorney's office to issue a new complaint, charging reckless driving, in the collision with the crowd. McAlpin's car injured two people.

PLUMBER BANKRUPT.—Morris Goldstein, Oakland plumber, filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in the federal court here today, listing liabilities of $694.40 and exempted assets.

CONTENT 'DADS' DODGE CHANGE TO BUY BONDS

Alameda county came near entering the list of bond holders today when Supervisors Redmond C. Staats moved the adoption of a resolution authorizing the county to buy $100,000 worth of bonds of the Berkeley school district and Berkeley High School bonds.

"I move the adoption for the purpose of getting action," said Staats, "and I care whether we buy them or not."

"If we are going to have a surplus sufficient to enable us to become bond buyers," said Supervisor W. J. Hamilton, "I am in favor of reducing the tax rate."

"It would amount to the same thing," suggested other supervisors. "We would decrease the county cost by increasing the income tax."

"You would merely increase the amount of surplus," was the criticism of that theory.

The matter was temporarily disposed of by referring the resolution to the committee on finance, to be considered next Thursday.

The agent of Rollins & Sons, purchasers of the bonds from Berkeley, said that the county could get some $300,000 tomorrow. They were present to urge the purchase, claiming that they are offering the short term bonds to the county cheaper than they bought them. They take their profit, they say, from the long term bonds. The bonds, if purchased, will pay about 4.50 per cent interest, which is 2.50 per cent interest, which is 2.50 per cent interest, which is 2.50 per cent interest.

DODGE RESPONSIBILITY.—Neither Treasurer Fred W. Foss nor Auditor E. P. Carlson would assume the responsibility of guaranteeing that the county would never be forced to pay for a lack of funds to pay cash, but the general opinion was that such would never happen. It was pointed out, however, that such would make it necessary to have the cash.

The county is building the new hospital, proposed to be called the Highland Park Hospital, on an acre of land, and the money is being paid the sooner the hospital will be built. The enterprise will cost close to $2,000,000, and only $250,000 is available to begin with. Then, too, was said, the county bridge work on which will, it is hoped, begin soon, will cost much more than the $1,000,000 bonds provided. It was proposed to use the surplus to cover them, instead of having to raise more money.

The board today received the preliminary budget estimates as follows: General fund, $670,555; salary fund, $333,225; expenditure fund, $400,000; road and $2,750; revolving fund, $10,000; and forestry fund, $150.

CONTRACT AWARDED.—The board passed a resolution awarding the contract for the new highway from Bates to the present contractors on other county highway work. They were the only bidders, offering to do the work for $158,010. The bid was accompanied by a check for $15,000, which was to be used to prepare plans for concrete bridge construction on the Eden Canyon road to cost approximately $4000. The bridges to be built will repair damage done by the recent flood.

A liquor license was granted to Frank Toscano at Sunol. The granting of the license was regarded as the source of considerable merriment, as it was under the circumstances. The applicant was willing to gamble the $10 he has to pay against the prospects of being able to do business.

When the board adjourned today they did so to canvass the returns of the State highway bond election and to meet as a board of equalization.

The complete figures on the bond election are:

Total vote 23,490, of which 19,795 were for the bonds and 3595 against them. Sunol precinct, the last to report, voted 40 to nothing for the bonds.

POSTPONE ACTION ON GAMBLING LAW

The amendment to the city gambling law, passed at first reading last week and due for second reading today, was laid over by the city council to Wednesday, by request of Commissioner F. P. Morse, who said that he had not yet received a legal opinion on the matter. The amendment, designed to permit the shaking of 25 games in eight stories, was introduced by Commissioner W. J. Bacus last week, when Morse recommended it in its sense. He said today he wanted to be sure of the legal phases of the law before definitely voting on it.

The city council met today as a board of equalization. A detailed report was read from Chief Deputy Assessor W. H. Dwyer, showing the grand total of the city's assessment roll to be $156,401,362. This, he said, was an increase over last year's assessment roll of $1,267,615, and that in addition he estimated a million-dollar increase in personal property and solvent credit assessments would be available to this city. The real estate in the city he valued at $22,358,566, and improvements at $51,116,250. Personal property assessments he estimated at $21,538,750. The council will meet all this week after the regular council meetings as an equalization board to hear any protests of assessments.

Kisses His Children; Then Drinks Poison

After kissing his two small children goodnight, Joseph P. Silva, a shipworker, went into the yard of his home at 1088 Kennedy st. and drank poison. According to a statement given to inspectors Gallagher, Sanborn and Tracy by Mrs. Silva, her husband had been absent from home since July 5, but returned last night. A quarrel ensued and Silva threatened to "cut a little" to his wife. She refused, thinking he was joking. Silva was revived at the emergency hospital.

Packers Control Foods, Is Charge Trade Board Makes Accusation

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEADS WIRE TO TRIBUNE.
WASHINGTON, July 7.—The Federal Trade Commission, it was learned tonight, has prepared a report on its investigation of the packers and will shortly make it public. This report, it is understood, will show how the packers entered into other branches of the food business, such as the handling of rice, fish and other edibles, and will tell how they have invaded new fields, such as the manufacture of sandpaper and grape juice.

Recommendations for federal action to control these activities will be made, it was said.

The National Wholesale Grocers' Association filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission today, saying that if no action is taken to prevent the packers carrying preserves and other such articles in their refrigerator cars, "it is only a question of time until the packers will soon control the distribution of our food products generally throughout the country."

READ IT IN PAPER; IT MUST BE TRUE

By REDDY.
"Last night's TRIBUNE says," said Dad at the breakfast table as he absent-mindedly "lifted" my butter and put it under the third of mother's "stack-o-hot's" in front of him without planning up from the paper, "that public is invited to come along to the big annual picnic of the TRIBUNE employees next Sunday at Monticello Grove over in Marin county."

He paused to stir his coffee and I sat there holding my breath and waiting for the big idea to come. I just about knew it would because I knew the machine was in the garage and would be next week, besides Dad said last time we went out that he was getting tired of all the drives around here.

Sis winked at me and I knew she was wishing we would go, too.

Then mother walked over and gave me some butter for what Dad had taken. I gave her a wink. She caught the big idea and said: "What's it going to be like? We haven't taken a boat trip for a long time."

"Well," said Dad, "here's what the paper says and it sure ought to be good."

That sounds good to me. Getting warmer, I ventured to whisper to Sis across the table and leaned back in my chair suddenly as Dad scowled over his paper at this breach of etiquette.

He read:

Hundreds of joy lovers and lovers of all kinds are planning to be guests of the employees of the Oakland TRIBUNE at their annual picnic next Sunday, July 13, at Monticello Grove.

Over 500 employees in the great afternoon daily organization alone and fully 500 guests more who will fill the two big steam launches so overflowing with refreshments.

A complete program of games and races has been arranged by the TRIBUNE committee. A special jazz orchestra will go along with the band and will later furnish music for dancing at the Marin county beauty spot.

All friends of THE TRIBUNE are invited to attend the picnic for which tickets are on sale at the main TRIBUNE office.

The price for tickets which includes the boat ride, and admission to the grounds and dancing pavilion is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children under twelve.

I put down the paper, so Sis and I put on the very best manners we could think of and watched him enjoy mother's coffee and the hot buttered toast.

"Do we want to go?" he said finally.

It was unanimous, we go.

FRIENDSHIP CAUSE OF WOE, HE SAYS

Investigation has been started by Captain of Police Charles Beck into the complaint of Louis Alborelli, president of the People's Express Company, who charges that he is being harassed by certain policemen. His transfer was moved against him by his drivers arrested without excuse because of his friendship for Captain of Detectives Walter J. Petersen.

Corporal James Pullman came to me, Alborelli said, and asked me why I was so friendly with Petersen and told me it was "no business." "I told him I had nothing to do with Petersen except that I had known him a long time in this social way. Well, I understand you're one of those that's for Petersen," Pullman said, and shortly after the police began moving my wagons and starting trouble for me."

Chinese and Russians Battle Over Cab Fare

MARIN, June 30.—(By the Associated Press).—Chinese soldiers and the Russian militia became involved in a small battle here Sunday evening over the fare of a Russian passenger of a Chinese cab, who insisted on paying his fare in Siberian money. A Russian police inspector and two Chinese soldiers were killed. Chinese and Russian officials restored quiet.

7000-MILE TRIP IS MADE IN VAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—The Firefly of Sydney, she is called, and she is quite lost in dismay, for after coming 7000 miles from Australia just as fast as the steamer could carry her, she finds herself quite alone at San Francisco hotel, except for a half dozen or so devoted newspaper reporters, a lobby full of adoring males and a score of sympathizing matrons.

Vicious Altyrie Alexander expected that awaiting her in San Francisco would be her equally vicious chum, 22-year-old Fayette Perry Allison, who was state book musical comedy, but who forsook the stage to marry James Allison, a cattleman of the Antipodes, many years older than she.

But Miss Alexander was doomed to be disappointed; her chum was gone, none knows whether, and that is the reason Miss Alexander is all alone, with the exception, etc.

She learned, however, that Mrs. Allison's stay in San Francisco had not been without event, and that romance trailed the dainty actress.

Investigation showed that it was just three days after the bride arrived in San Francisco that they decided on a separation. Allison, who is 35 years old, agreed to give his young bride $75,000.

DYING YOUTH CLEARS FRIEND WHO SHOT HIM

His last words a feeble exoneration of his boyhood pal, Ernest Phillips, 17, of 5603 Holway street, died last night in the emergency hospital from the effects of a bullet inflicted while on a hunting expedition in Windy Gulch.

The shot was fired from a gun in the hands of Burton Laphal of 2519 Sixty-first street. Both boys declared the shooting was accidental when questioned by Police Inspectors A. Sanderson.

The shooting occurred Sunday morning, but young Phillips lingered all day in the hospital before death came. The bullet was imbedded in the abdomen and could not be located by the attending physician.

As was their custom every Sunday, the two lads went hunting for the day according to the statements of both boys, Laphal became excited and raised his gun quickly. The trigger, which was cocked, snapped and exploded his 22-calibre weapon, sending a bullet through a nearby physician and the injured lad was taken to the emergency hospital after receiving first aid.

ATTEMPT TO KILL WOMAN; MYSTERY

What the police believe to have been a bold attempt to take the life of Mrs. John Karlson of 8229 Florio street, by an unknown foe, was revealed today in a report of an investigation that is under way to determine who fired the bullet.

The bullet found was brought to Central Station by Police Inspector Gannaway. It is held as a valuable clue in the search for the unknown assailant.

The shot was fired last night as Mrs. Karlson was in her sitting room with the window open. The explosion did not frighten her at the time, as she believed it was a giant firecracker that exploded. In reality the explosion heard by Mrs. Karlson was a shot fired from a 45-caliber gun.

Mrs. Karlson discovered this fact when she arose this morning and found the ceiling chipped and the bullet imbedded. She promptly reported the attempt to take her life to the police.

The woman cannot give any reason for the attempted murder. She told the police inspectors she had no enemies and could not understand the shooting. There were no money or valuables of great consequence in the house at the time of the shooting.

Police Search for Japanese Student

A police search was instituted throughout the bay district today in an effort to locate Iisao Ito, age 13, a wealthy Japanese student, who has been missing from his home at 716 Madison street, since last Saturday. The boy's father, a wealthy car dealer of Oakland, today appealed to the Oakland police to aid in the search. He advised the authorities that he was almost convinced his son was a victim of foul play.

'Royal' Soviet For English Predicted by W. Allen White

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 7.—Predicting that England will have the first established soviet government, William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kansas, Gazette, who returned yesterday on the steamship Baltic, after work in connection with the peace conference, declared in his opinion it would be a "royal soviet" established without disorder and without the king losing "his job."

"The king is playing with the radicals," White said, "and his associates now are people who could not possibly have been within the royal circle before the war. The Prince of Wales is going among the poorer classes and keeping in touch with their needs and desires and showing the sympathy of the royal family for them."

"Conditions in England are chaotic. Labor is in the saddle for the present. The men who fought in the trenches and were told they were fighting for democracy intend now to see that they get democracy, and they will get it."

A meeting has been called for Tuesday night. All parties are pledged to make no further statements until the matter has been fully investigated.

Reports that Dr. Kramer would answer his accusers in his sermon were denied by him. He said: "I will make known my side, but not such time I am pledged to make no statement."

Miss Hall also said that she would await the action of the board.

PARK SITE PLAN IS UP TO VOTERS

Plans for a bond issue, to be voted on simultaneously with the coming school bond and Lake Merritt Park development plan, and under which various park sites proposed to be purchased will be submitted to the people, were launched today by the city council.

"There is no reason, especially in this coming high tax rate," said Mayor John L. Davis, "of buying any of these park sites on a direct tax basis. We should let the people to come in future years help pay for these parks, which they will receive the benefit of."

The matter came up through the request of H. J. Leonard, an East Oakland resident, that the Lake Merritt triangle, on Lake Shore avenue, recommended by the park commission to be purchased, be bought at once, as mortgages were said to be pressing the owner of the land.

"That's the piece next to Dr. Herple's house," said the mayor. "I don't see any necessity for hurrying up this matter. I object to any direct tax money being used for any park plan; a bond issue should be called to place all of these before the people."

Municipal Telephone System Is Proposed

Recommendation that the city revoke the franchise of the telephone company, and that plans be made for maintaining a municipal telephone system, in which Berkeley, Oakland and Alameda might join, was filed today with the city council by the Building Trades Council. The communication was placed on file without action.

PASTOR OMITTS SCANDAL TALK FROM SERMON

SAN JOSE, July 7.—An ovation lasting for several minutes greeted the Rev. James W. Kramer, pastor of the First Baptist church here, last night when he appeared in his pulpit.

Keen disappointment was shown by the audience that filled the church, to the doors when Kramer failed to make any reference to the charges of slander made against him recently by Miss Alberta Hall, former soloist in the choir of Kramer's church.

Before leaving the building at the conclusion of the evening service nearly every member in attendance shook hands with Kramer.

Principal in the controversy growing out of charges Miss Alberta Hall, former choir singer, makes against the Rev. James W. Kramer, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, were unanimous today in their decision to refer all further discussion to the board of deacons.

F. L. Trone, clerk of the board, said:

"A meeting has been called for Tuesday night. All parties are pledged to make no further statements until the matter has been fully investigated."

Reports that Dr. Kramer would answer his accusers in his sermon were denied by him. He said: "I will make known my side, but not such time I am pledged to make no statement."

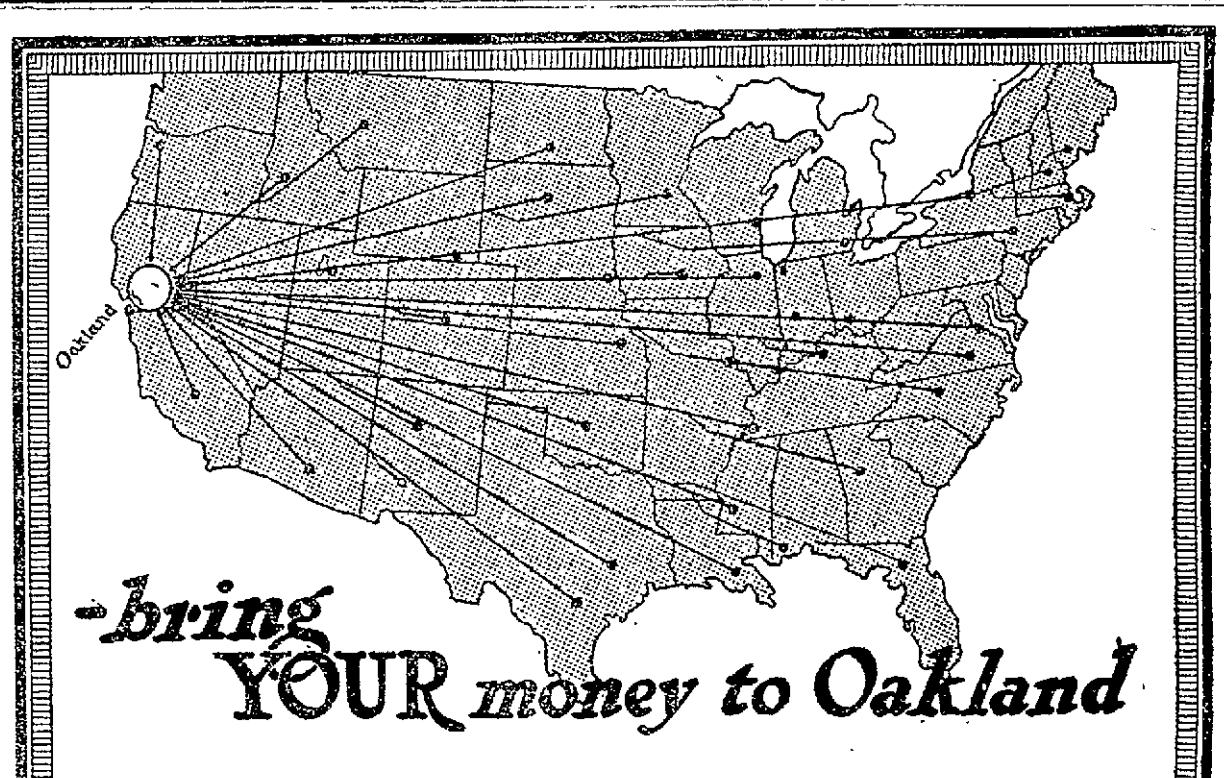

Miss Hall also said that she would await the action of the board.

Two Features Headline American Bill

The picture program presented at the American theater yesterday, and which will be the attraction today and tomorrow, afforded most enjoyable entertainment for the large audiences present at the afternoon and evening performances.

The first feature of the double program is Bert Lytell in "One Thing at a Time," a picture which is a comedy of the day. William Dunlop Kelly's widely-read Saturday Evening Post story of the same name.

Cerine Griffith in "Thin Ice," an absorbing story of a woman's fight, against great odds, for love and honor, is the second feature of the bill.

"One Thing at a Time" is a clever comedy drama recounting the adventures of an exceedingly precise young man who falls in love with a circus bare-back rider—the queen of the round top.

An educational weekly concluded the picture program.

John Wharry Lewis and his orchestra are playing "One Thing at a Time," as was exemplified yesterday afternoon and evening at the T. & D. theater when the original "Shimmie Dancers" from New York City, appeared on the T. & D. stage in person and shimmered their way into the hearts of joyous audiences.

"Shimmie" is some little trick at that, and when done as designed, creates quite a shivery sensation, as was exemplified yesterday afternoon and evening at the T. & D. theater when the original "Shimmie Dancers" from New York City, appeared on the T. & D. stage in person and shimmered their way into the hearts of joyous audiences.

"The Shimmie Dancers," representing north, south, east and west, and representing the pick steppers of the country, will dance afternoon and evening at the T. & D. throughout this week. Prizes are given the dancers decided by the audiences to be the best.

Shimmering honors on the bill with the Shimmie Dancers are Alice Joyce, in "The Cambie Mask," and Lucille Lee Stewart in "The Eleventh Commandment." In "The Cambie Mask," Alice Joyce is a hard-riding, gun-fighting heroine and is at her dramatic best in this thrilling play of Ky-Klux-Klanism and mysterious White Riders.

Other pictures, including a Kinogram news classic, are on the bill.

GEORGE COOPER

LANDERS STEVENS AGAIN AT LIBERTY.

Landers Stevens and George Cooper received what amounted to an ovation yesterday afternoon at Ye Liberty playhouse when they made their debut at the head of a new dramatic stock company in "The Man From Mexico." It has been some time since the favorites appeared in this city, and a capacity house was in attendance to greet them.

In return for the applause, the two players gave a remarkable performance of the principal roles in "The Man From Mexico," which proved to be one of the "unmistakable" shows to be presented here in years.

"The Man From Mexico" is not new to many players, but it has qualities that will be recognized and appreciated fifty years hence.

As "Bertrand Fitzgerald," Stevens was in one of his happiest moods. He kept his audience screaming from the time he stepped on the stage in this thrilling play of Ky-Klux-Klanism and mysterious White Riders.

There will be a special matinee of "The Man From Mexico" on Wednesday, and a regular matinee on Wednesday.

The production will run until Wednesday evening inclusive, and will be followed by Julia Ettinge, the celebrated comedienne, appearing in his new Nineteen-Nineteen hearing, which includes a number of the best of the day.

KINEMA PRESENTS GRIFFITH RE-ENTERING.

George Griffith champions the plain girl in her conflict with the rough and perturbed butterfly for the life of happiness in "True Heart Susie," all this week at the Kinema.

She can make biscuits that melt in her mouth, and she has a quiet way she tries to please the man she loves and waits for, but the butterfly flirts with her and she is a thing—but happiness.

"True Heart Susie" has not a suggestion of war or war times in it, but tells a simple story, so human that it grips the heart. Lillian Gish, Robert Herron and Clarence Seymour are included in the cast.

The Tribune-Kinema Weekly shows the celebration of the Festival of the Holy Ghost, the Alameda Rehearsal and Patches, Mayor Davis and Jesse Robinson, president of the Lions Club, Bush League Baseball in San Leandro, Oakland's farewell to John Barleycorn and Daniel Best, who built the first tractor in California.

Other features are Orley See, violinist, a two-reel Christie Comedy, Gammon Review and Screen Magazine.

FRANKLIN OFFERING

"Rustling a Bride" is a romantic comedy of hearts and horse thieves at the Franklins today and tomorrow. Cow country methods are adapted to a modern wooing when the lonely young girl goes west to meet the man with whose picture she has fallen in love. The joke is on both of them when the misunderstanding is cleared up.

A Christie Comedy, Lyons and Moran in one of their cleverest laughers, winners, a Mutt and Jeff cartoon.

"The Net" Grips Audience at Fulton Theater

There are no fewer than ten important parts in the Fulton Theater production this week—"The Net." The entire company is employed and each member is cast to the greatest advantage.

The play is a prodigious opportunity for the actors to display their talents and the audience is held in an emotional grip that hardly ever lets up. It is almost too intense.

Anna Bryant, as the wife of the profligate Bruce Norman, rises to sublime heights of emotional acting. No actress with a greater opportunity than two or three of the scenes provided her, and it must be said that she does them for all they are worth.

There is just one scene, however, which the reviewer would like to see excellently. He does not know his name, but he knows that he is a fighter, and he is a fighter.

CONTROL IMPOSSIBLE

There is no woman in the world who, under the extraordinary, yet entirely possible, conditions of the play, can control herself as Miss Bryant does. She claims against it, and stands victoriously, when she is alone she does yield to it.

This is the situation. Her husband is a fighter, and he is a fighter. He does not know his name, but he knows that he is a fighter, and he is a fighter.

"The Man" walks into the scene totally bereft of reason, following an assault that has all but killed him. He does not know his name, but he knows that he is a fighter, and he is a fighter.

MAN'S MEMORY RETURNS.

Then it is that in the hope of restoring his memory he is sent to the hospital. He does not know his name, but he knows that he is a fighter, and he is a fighter.

THE PLAY ITSELF.

The last act, after the stage hands have set the scene before the audience, is the "play itself." The audience is held in an emotional grip that hardly ever lets up.

JAZZ MUSICIANS ARE FEATURES AT PANTAGES.

Burlesque at Orpheum Is Laugh Maker

"It Happened in Oakland," at the Orpheum is not a play; only one act of it is. And no audience sees the best two acts, that is, no audience is supposed to see the best two acts.

The "unofficial" audience that should be there at all, no actor is supposed to rehearse, and stage hands aren't supposed to shift scenes before people—no more than people in glass houses are supposed to take baths. It just happens that the people do see it, although the stage director explains to them very carefully that they're not there; they're supposed to see and not supposed to be in the theater until the last act goes on.

It's all a great big burlesque, but it accomplishes its principal object in theaterdom: it makes one laugh. Besides that, it's always interesting to the layman to see how things are "worked" behind the scenes, and when the stage hands strike out and set up another, it's a real inside glimpse of a play-fundry.

STARTS WITH REHEARSAL.

The play starts with the rehearsal of the audience, and the stage director, Lucie, Louis Leon Hall, Stage Director Walter B. Gilbert, Ruth Ormsby, Olive Templeton and the rest "show up" in their street clothes, quarrel over lines, and the audience is held in an emotional grip that hardly ever lets up.

"Dovey" Whitley, box office man, who isn't an actor at all, is made to act, and gets a "hand" from the ushers.

Anyhow, during the rehearsal it's put up to Lucie to make up the play. Then the next act shows the telephone exchange, with transparencies for Lucie's room, Miss Templeton's room, Hall's room, and a telephone booth where all the action takes place.

Every time Lucie talks where all the action takes place, she is a fighter. He does not know his name, but he knows that he is a fighter, and he is a fighter.

THE PLAY ITSELF.

The last act, after the stage hands have set the scene before the audience, is the "play itself." The audience is held in an emotional grip that hardly ever lets up.

U. S. Duty to World Theme of Dr. Silsley

The Rev. Frank M. Silsley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, preached last night on "The Immorality of the Modern Knights," celebrating the demobilization of the church flag.

The honor roll men today stand for the progressive American patriotism, which is the spirit of loyalty to America, but also the spirit of the big brother to other nations.

The old, or small, patriotism, stops with selfish national interest. It refused to go beyond Sandy Hook. It impatiently shrinks from active interest in European affairs. It refused to rise up to plague us.

"If we had stayed out of the war and had let the European nations fight out their own affairs, the enemy would have been at our own gates today. And all American history right now is for the progressive patriotism."

To make Washington a friend of the smaller nations, it is to forget that Washington sought the aid of France in the revolutionary war. It is to forget that the Civil war was a heart-war for the blacks.

It is to forget that the war with Spain was a heart-war for the oppressed people of Cuba and Porto Rico. It is to forget that the war with Mexico was a heart-war for the oppressed people of Mexico.

EASTBAY SOCIETY NEWS

Many House Parties Enjoyed Over the Fourth

The country homes were the rendezvous for many a house party the past few days. Whether at the seashore or high in the Sierras, motorists filled the highways and byways en route to one or another of the attractive places. Some took the road to Brookdale, and Ben Leonard where many of the east bay set have rustic bungalows; others motored to Del Monte and Carmel or on up into the northern country.

At Mission San Jose where the A. A. Moore ranch is situated there was a merry house party with the gathering of the Moore clan, the Donald Moores, and Ben Leonard where many of the east bay set have rustic bungalows; others motored to Del Monte and Carmel or on up into the northern country.

8,000,000 Women Work For Red Cross

Eight million women workers, enlisted in service in the Red Cross, broke all records for war service in the United States in the eighteen months ending January 1, 1919, according to the report completed by the American Red Cross and issued today.

In this time the women's army of eight million made 354,864,855 articles, valued at $81,449,977, and the report estimates that these women put in 200,000,000 hours of work in the aggregate, which would be equivalent to the entire working time for one year of 125,000 men.

Women of the Pacific Division made a notable record in this report, according to Mrs. A. L. McLeish, division director of chapter production.

They have worked faithfully and well with a spirit that showed both patriotism and realization of the brotherhood of man," she said.

In showing the work of the coast division, she told in that the call for 150,000 garments from national headquarters, and of how the chapters of California, Nevada and Arizona not only completed their quota, but made it 191,0

Veteran Comedian of Former Generation Seriously Ill in Hospital

SAN DIEGO, July 7.—George H. Primrose, who acquired fame and popularity a generation ago, as a comedian and at the head of the minstrel show of Primrose and West, is seriously ill in a hospital in this city. His physician has announced that there is small hope for his recovery.

Primrose is 66 years of age and much of his life has been spent on the stage. He left New York for the West six months ago in the hope of finding relief from his present illness and came to San Diego two weeks ago accompanied by his brother Albert.

THEATER MAN TELLS HOW HE MAN-HANDLED DIP

In full detail, even in answer to the "manhandling charge" of the defendant, the circumstances of the activities of an alleged pickpocket, one Thomas Green, were told by Harry E. Cornell, manager of the Orpheum, the "dip" captor, on the witness stand today in Police Judge George Samuels' court.

Harry would not have bagged the alleged pickpocket had he not been on the job and en route to see that all his performers knew their lines before going on.

The incident occurred on a street car at Fourteenth and Washington streets. Domingo Muzio, plaintiff, accused Green of extracting his pocketbook on the car.

In the role of "pol-eece-man," Citizen Cornell made his entrance upon the scene from the front end of the car, according to his own testimony.

Conductor H. I. Ready, of 439 East Fourteenth street, had the pickpocket suspect in custody.

"Is this the man?" quoth Harry.

"Yeah," said Ready.

Then the Orpheum manager lifted Green bodily off the car. He turned him over to a policeman and boarded the car again.

OAKLAND-S. F. FERRIES CARRY 1203 MACHINES

Automobile travel on the creek route between First and Broadway, this city, and San Francisco, set a new record yesterday, when 1203 machines were carried between the two cities on the steamers Melrose, Fenelon and Thoroughfare during the day and most of the night. The vessels made regular runs all day and each carried a capacity load of machines on each trip. So great was the congestion that it was found necessary to make an extra trip at 2:25 a. m. to transport the remaining 32 machines.

With three ferry steamers operating between Sausalito and San Francisco last night, there was great congestion of automobiles. 725 machines awaiting transportation at 7 p. m. Many of the autos did not reach San Francisco until this morning as a result of the unusually heavy motor travel yesterday. The three ferries were taking machines across at the rate of 100 an hour. There were several arrests for violation of the traffic ordinance, drivers in a big rush to reach home attempting to cut in ahead of other machines.

Officer aside, he continued his flight. Harris pulled the trigger of his revolver, but the gun refused to fire. He pursued the man, but was outdistanced.

Police Inspectors Gallagher and Sanderson searched the vicinity for several blocks, but found no trace of the burglar.

U. C. EDUCATOR'S WIFE SUCCEUMS

BERKELEY, July 7.—While her son, Lieutenant Charles Vincent Rugh, flew in the United States army in his wings his way across the mountains on route to San Francisco on a government mission, Mrs. Jessie Mullen Rugh, wife of Charles E. Rugh, professor of education at the University of California, died yesterday at her home, 2322 Dana street.

Efforts to reach the young flier to inform him of his mother's passing have proved futile and private funeral services were conducted this afternoon without the presence of Lieutenant Rugh.

Lieutenant Rugh started recently on a survey trip from Houston, Texas, with San Francisco as his destination, planning to come immediately to Berkeley to his mother's bedside. Mrs. Rugh's passing followed a lingering illness. She was 42 years old and a native of Pennsylvania.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Rugh is survived by three children, Lieutenant Charles Rugh, D. D. Rugh and Jean Winnifred Rugh.

MAYOR DAVIE IS FIRM BELIEVER IN SOFT ANSWER

A soft answer not only turneth away wrath, but often gets results in the way of answers back according to Mayor John L. Davie.

Davie wired Postmaster-General Burleson several days ago, asking for action in the telephone strike.

Mayor James Rolph Jr. also wired, and today Rolph was reported to be angry because Burleson had not answered his wire. Davie's wire was answered by Burleson on Saturday.

"I guess Mayor Rolph sort of went after Burleson hammer and tongs," said Davie. "I didn't. I told him the facts, but did it politely, and a soft answer turneth away wrath, and getteth results, too, apparently. Anyway I got an answer and poor Rolph didn't."

Fatness Kills 31,000 Yearly

It is fatal to health and personality. It is estimated that over 31,000 persons die each year because of excessive fatness.

Any overweight man or woman is carrying unhealthily adiposity that is pressing against and injuring vital organs of the body. The heart, that delicate human apparatus, becomes congested. In numerous cases there are dangerous gatherings of poisons in fat around the throat, stomach, liver and other delicate parts.

Through overeating the afflicted person while apparently well is liable to nervousness, neurasthenia, physical or mental collapse and other disorders, for obesity is irritating. Cases of heart failure, apoplexy, gastritis, etc., are frequent causes of premature death. Fat persons are particularly victims of accidents and are more liable than healthy, slender persons to death from influenza, pneumonia and other severe ailments.

If you are overweight you should know it is truly a case of slow poison for you to kill yourself a good many years before natural old age, simply because you do not eliminate yourself from the burden of unhealthy adiposity fat. Moreover, your efficiency should be improved by becoming slimmer; also your appearance should become younger and more attractive. There is a delightful successful method of weight reduction known as the Kora system. It consists of some simple directions with the use of oil of Sarsaparilla. This method is so pleasant because it contains no drastic or other such drastic ingredients, no strenuous exercises, no starvation. Indeed, you may eat all you need. The Kora system is maintained; it is perfectly harmless, recommended by physicians. A reliable self-treatment.

By reducing now you may expect greater contentment, happiness, increased mental and physical efficiency, better health and a longer life. Be fair to yourself and those who are dear to you! Surprise everybody with your renewed vigor, vivacity and surpassingly superior personality. Get oil of Kora (the easy Kora system is in each package) at the drug store without delay, or if more convenient, send $1.00 cash, stamps or money order to Kora Co., N.M.-69, Station F, New York, N. Y.

TAXES AND ECONOMY.

Statistics compiled by the California Taxpayers' Journal show that the total amount of taxes levied by the county governments during the fiscal year ended June 30 was $70,874,977. This is an 8.82 percent increase over the levy of $65,129,980 for the preceding twelve months' period. Increases in the cost of the State government were voted at the last session of the legislature and the county tax levies will unquestionably show a further large increase during the fiscal year of 1919-20, perhaps a larger increase than was recorded during the last fiscal year. Municipal tax levies will also be raised throughout the State. Disappearance of the liquor traffic will account for a part of the increase, but added government expenses would have necessitated higher tax rates even if the saloons had been permitted to stay.

Plainly a very serious problem is before the people of California and it is one that will not disappear until it is solved. There is always a lot of talk about economy, but when tax-levying bodies meet there is also a lot of requests for appropriations for new projects or for the extension of old projects. Some of the new expenses nearly always manage to get official sanction and the cost of government is given another boost.

One of three things will certainly happen: Either the taxes will continue to increase at an alarming rate, the assessment roll will be substantially increased or merciless economy will have to be observed. Sound governmental sense would dictate rational, reasonable economy, greater efficiency and more industry on the part of officials and efforts to keep the tax rate down.

It will be recalled that Governor Stephens in his pre-election campaign in 1918 promised to introduce economy and efficiency in the State government. He appointed an economy and efficiency commission to make a survey of the State administration and report results. This the commission did with commendable promptness. But its recommendations were either ignored or rejected. Two or three suggestions for piecemeal savings were adopted for form's sake, but in the main the economy commission, having served a political purpose, was told to go home and sit down.

There was one excuse for not going further in making the commission's recommendations effective—lack of time after they were submitted and before the necessary adjournment of the legislature. But that excuse only holds good temporarily.

If there is an honest desire to increase the efficiency of the State and county governments and to reduce expenses, preliminaries ought to be inaugurated now. The legislature meets again in eighteen months. Should a commission on efficiency and economy start to work now it would be able to submit a comprehensive, scientific, practical plan of governmental reform on the day the next legislature convenes.

There is no use of trying to evade the issues of taxation and expenditures. There was some talk at Sacramento during the legislative session of a constitutional assembly to re-cast the government of the State. But that was camouflage, pure and simple, to sidetrack the Boynton commission's report. Let there be at once a fresh beginning on the economy and efficiency problem. Excuses for failure to do this will not be accepted when the next legislature convenes nor in any political campaigns that may occur before 1921.

A COLLEGE PRESIDENT.

The case of Miss Helen Herron Taft is one to inspire all American girls. At the age of twenty-eight she has been elected acting President of Bryn Mawr College, famous educational institution for young women.

It was of no benefit to the career of Miss Taft that at the age of nineteen she was commanded by her father, President of the United States, to quit her studies at college and come to Washington to live at the White House; to preside at state dinners and formal social affairs of an official character, often taking the place of her mother, who was too ill to attend many functions. That was a temporary drawback. She was forced to remain out of college for four years. She did not like Washington life any more than she liked the purely social side of her college life at Bryn Mawr. When she was able to quit Washington she returned to her studies and worked hard for three more years for the degrees she coveted. At the close of this period she joined the faculty and when her country went to war she became one of the nation's leaders in directing the womanhood of the country toward useful war occupations.

Now at an age when some persons do not even know what they would like as a life career she is a college president, head of an institution in which many famous women of the country have been trained and which many more will be prepared for lives of useful leadership in the world of women. She has reached the top by hard work, persevering application and devotion to a single purpose despite an exalted interruption that would have turned the head of ninety-nine girls out of every hundred.

THE TRIAL OF THE KAISER.

It is interesting to observe how many Kaiser-lovers raise their voice from time to time, some of them appearing from quarters that blatantly boast, as if it were an extraordinary thing, of their "100 percent Americanism." There are lugubrious arguments that the Kaiser is now an unimportant quantity and that to bring him before an Allied court for trial would unnecessarily wound the feelings of the German people and bring distress upon the Dutch government and people.

What mighty considerations these against Wilhelm Hohenzollern's infamy! Let it not be thought for an instant that the former Kaiser is an unimportant quantity, or that his trial and prospective punishment is designed solely to stigmatize his personal conduct or to inflict upon him individual pain. The Kaiser and kaiserism was a fetid growth of the German nation, and its roots reached to every German heart. The crimes the Kaiser committed—chief among which are the invasion of Belgium and Luxembourg, the submarine piracy and the enslavement of civilians in the occupied territory—were committed in the name of the German people. They were applauded and celebrated with popular rejoicing. The Kaiser represented the nation's authority, and his crimes against civilization and the laws of nations were Germany's crimes. Somebody must make expiation.

Something must be done to warn Germans of the present and future that the law of moral right cannot be violated with impunity. Through the trial of the Kaiser and other leading responsible officials the German nation is being placed on trial.

If these offenses were individual and represented only the power for injury of which individual action is capable there would indeed be no occasion for making them an international question. But such is not the case. Through the conduct of their leaders Germany challenged civilization and there has wisely been included in the peace treaty conditions that those leaders be tried before competent tribunals; this to serve exact justice a little more adequately.

Rhode Island is keeping true to her record. She has refused to ratify the prohibition amendment to the Constitution and through her legislature has instructed her attorney-general to take such action as he may deem appropriate to defeat the application of the amendment to her internal affairs. Rhode Island was so much opposed to the idea of a central government after the close of the Revolution that she absolutely refused to send a delegate to the Constitutional Convention. And she refused to ratify the Constitution until it had been in operation for some time. Long before that one Roger Williams was so devoted to the ideal of individual rights that he could not dwell on friendly terms with the Puritan fathers of Massachusetts. Meaning to have freedom of action at any cost he struck out into the wilderness and after fourteen weeks' wandering came to the land which the Indians called Narragansett. Thereon he established the city called Providence, dedicated to the ideals to find which he had left England and come to the New World. Rhode Island's present rebellious attitude may not mean anything of substance, but it again reveals her as a last ditch fighter for self-government and individual freedom of thought and action.

PROGRESS AND OPPORTUNITY.

Persons who hold that most of the chances for doing and acquiring have been seized upon and removed beyond the reach of those with nothing but merit to speak for them overlook the fact that one of the most conspicuous products of human progress is the multiplication of opportunities. There can be no progress, in fact, without a further increase of chances for the willing and competent. Within the last few decades great new industries providing remunerative employment and opportunity for wealth to vast numbers have grown up. There have been discoveries—such, for example, as better methods of mining—that have opened immense resources that previously could not have been touched. Newly developed ideas, such as intensive methods of agriculture, have given to the energy of the country a frontier far beyond that which had been accepted as final less than a generation ago.

The limitations placed upon the creation of opportunity in a great country like this are three and only three—the wants of the people, which are capable of almost indefinite expansion; the capacity to invent and the capacity to service to meet those wants, which is not likely ever to be exhausted; and the physical material, which we in this country possess in greater abundance than do the dwellers in any other part of the world.

Though social progress means the constant multiplication of opportunities, the taking advantage of these opportunities rests with the individual. And in spite of all the discoveries and all the progress of the world, the requisites for individual success remain the same. Habits of industry and thrift must be cultivated. Intelligent thinking and good morals must point the way. A love of humanity must give sweetness to the great task of right living. The homely wisdom that is a part of the human inheritance and that boys and girls learn from kindly, true-hearted fathers and mothers, continues to be vindicated daily in actual experience.

NOTES and COMMENT

Crossing the Atlantic by dirigible appears to be as hazardous as by airplane, but those who have recently been risking their lives are puny and future flights will be attended by less peril as a result of the experience gained.

President Wilson will address the Senate on Thursday, thus bearding the lions in their own den.

Germany is said to be eager to begin paying the costs of the war. If that government displays the same speed in liquidating its debts as it did in precipitating the conflict, the allied governments will be gratified.

The wise "I told you so" fellow is again in evidence. Thus it will ever be.

The crowd of 40,000 which paid $600,000 to witness the fight may have had its money's worth.

After the famous fistic contest in Nevada it was predicted that the country had witnessed the last prize fight. Such exhibitions will only cease when the gate receipts fail to justify their promotion.

William Howard Taft is said to have saved his 400th tree while waiting to learn his fate. This is certainly "sawing wood" with a vengeance.

The Eden Township Products show that is to be held in Hayward in August will be an ocular demonstration of what Alameda county can produce from the soil.

For the past few days Livermore has again demonstrated that the people of that flourishing valley know how.

Income tax dodgers are "to be pursued relentlessly," the collector of internal revenue announces. "Slick 'em" will be the sentiment of the fellow who has rendered an honest return and dug up handsomely.

Oakland is being recognized educationally. Superintendent of Schools Fred M. Hunter has been elected a director of the National Education Association.

A member of Congress has introduced a bill the object of which is to control members of the President's cabinet. It will take some legislation to regulate the official family as now constituted. Even the head of the household finds the task impossible.

The world's gold is said to now be in the hands of Uncle Sam. Keep it there, Uncle. It could not have a better custodian.

California has refused to cut the rates of the railroads. Possibly it is on the theory that as long as the government is pouring out millions with a profuse hand in meeting deficits, that this State might as well be in on the prosperity.

Every county in California went on record for good roads, which should be a big boost for the State throughout the entire country.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

"Hon'at to God, Judge, I'm an indiscreet but a good woman," was the plea of Bessie Young (colored), to Judge Wallace to avert his judicial wrath following her arrest in Chinatown with an opium pipe at her side. The heart of "hispan" refused to melt, and he gave Bessie 30 days in the county jail so that she might learn to be more discreet in the future, especially after it was learned that she had served a term in San Quentin for grand larceny. The Tulare Register has settled the matter as to whether or not this city is the gateway to the Sequoia National park despite the governor's punning of that humor on Virginia Secretary Houston and a Swiss minister left the train at Tulare and took auto into the park Wednesday. If there is anything else needed to settle for all time the weight of Tulare's claims as a gateway to Tulare would like to hear and publish it. But it some administration official by any chance gets off the Santa Fe at Hanford and takes auto for the park, look out Tulare, for a man may claim the honor of being the true gateway. The significant feature of the plan of county reorganization that has been reached is that there will have been no supervisors, with Durham, the widely advertised and fast growing community as miles to the south and closely allied with Chico, included in the Fifth district, holding the power balance between the north and south ends of the county. Thus it will be recognized that the sections in which the bulk of population and of taxable valuation rest will be fairly represented on the board. Supervisor Root is entitled to full credit for shrewd and patient effort in helping to bring about an arrangement that is eminently just to all parts of the county. Chico Enterprise

The lone German Fokker plane which was seen over this city at a great altitude one day last week, and which on the same day met with an accident, which lost the United States army aviator the seat of his trousers and the plane several rents in its wings when making a landing too close to a barbed wire fence, met with another mishap on Sunday while on the return journey from Phoenix, where a number of North Island army fliers had gone to take part in the exercises of Lieutenant Lake, the great American ace who met death in action. ## NOAH MADE IT FAMOUS

"Now add to the list of states that have asked the United States to be their mandatory—Nakhichevan."

"Never heard of Nakhichevan," says a bulletin from "Well, first of all, it is a district, for the district in question lies at the foot of Mt. Ararat and the town of Nakhichevan contains the alleged graveyard of Noah. The builder of the ark, local tradition affirms, went down into the land that now seeks the wing of the United States and died of thirst in the parched plain after his ark had broken up on the snowy peak of the world's most famous mountain."

The bulletin continues with a description of the region of Maynard Arax Williams, who was the last American to carry on relief work in Armenia, to which land he went from Nakhichevan just before Christmas, 1917. Quoting Mr. Williams the bulletin says:

"The Nakhichevan district, inhabited by Tatars, when peace comes will be bounded on the north by the Armenian district of Erivan. It is bounded on the south by the Arax river and on the west by the Arax river and on the east by the Arax river. The boundary between the Arax river and the Persian hills to the northeast is Shusha, a strong Armenian center, where the Armenians held out against a circle of foes in the summer of 1915."

"When Russia's power in the Caucasus declined and the soldiers flowed back from the former Russian front in Turkey through the Nakhichevan district, the trade routes between the Armenians and the Persian district broke out. This closed the carriage road to Tabriz and risk several members of the American committee for Armenian relief with headquarters at Erivan went to Tabriz and brought several million roubles in a train that was so crowded with retreating Russian soldiers that one of the committee members, upholders of roubles, was forced to sleep on the roof of the car in a temperature near zero. Within a week, the railway service was stopped by Armenian Tatar fighting."

"The uprising of the Nakhichevan Tatars was ill timed. German propaganda had placarded the disaffected with posters exhorting these Tatars, who are related to the Turks and are of the same religion, to arise against the Armenians, whom the retreating Russians had left to their own devices. Thus they did. But the Armenians had spent the winter in raising an army to take over the former Russian front and about 25,000 of these volunteers were assembled in Erivan."

"The Tatars advanced along the railway (Tiflis to Tabriz) and met serious resistance first at Kamaryn, 80 miles from the city of Nakhichevan. There was some spirited fighting and the Tatars were soon defeated and at least one well was filled with their dead bodies. Women and children were not touched by the Armenians. By circling between Kamaryn and Mount Ararat along the wide plain of the Arax, the Tatars reached the junction of the Arax and the railway station there, also cutting the Indian-European telegraph line which joins the west of the world. This necessitated the sending of Vice-consul Doolittle to Teheran in order to establish connection with Washington at a time when all Americans were being forced to leave Tiflis."

"When I crossed the Igdir plain, where Armenians are starving to day, these much persecuted people were having their linnings and the smoke from a score of burning Tatar villages could be seen. Tatars with arms were allowed to live if they surrendered their guns, and women were not touched but their villages were looted and burned by the Armenians. This was in March, 1919. All the Tatars retreated to the Nakhichevan district where they formed a majority of the population. There they have remained. Hatred between them and the Armenians is strong but due to the greater strength of the Armenians there are no atrocities.

"The whole problem is made difficult by the diversity of the population. In the mountain villages the Kurds are most numerous. A strong hand will be necessary to control these several tribes. The Kurds have been forced to be butchers by the Turks, who gave them guns as their only tools and who kept agriculture and education from them. Their condition is as bad as that of the Armenians and when I crossed the Turkish-Russian boundary I saw scores of Kurds with only one garment and barefoot at an altitude of 7000 feet in March."

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

Making a New Nose Not An Unusual Surgical "Miracle"

(Johns Hopkins University)
BY DR. LEONARD K. HIRSBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D.

Among the more serious operations one of the commonest is to replace a nose which has been destroyed. This is performed with great success in many cases, especially when there is enough bone and cartilage left of the original nose to give it a fair foundation for the surgical creation.

Briefly speaking, the method is to cut a nose-shaped flap from the forehead, twist it round without severing it, bring it down and model it into a nose-shape over the missing part.

The up-to-date surgeon makes a paper model of the nose to be created and pastes it upon the forehead. The narrow part of the mapped-out flap is near the actual bridge of the nose, while the broad base of the nose comes from that part of the forehead near the hair-line.

The nose form is carefully mapped out with its wings and the division between the nostrils. A high forehead is an advantage for one undergoing this operation.

One of the most successful surgeons cuts the flap so that the pedicle, or narrow part, occupies the angle of the eye, where the subsequent scar will be less noticeable. Care is taken to avoid cutting the angular artery. The flap in this method is cut almost toward the hair instead of going straight upward.

In cutting the flap the surgeon takes all tissue down to the bone-covering and lifts up the flap. Then he twists it round on its pedicle and brings it down so that the skin side lies outward over the place where the nose should be. He models it as nearly as possible into normal nose shape and stitches it securely with horseshair to the wreckage of the original nose. Then he stitches together the edges of the wound left in the forehead by the removal of the flap.

Some conservative surgeons condemn operations aimed purely to produce beauty in a face that is nearly normal, but it is hard to say where the profession draws the line. A prominent New York surgeon, a fellow of the Academy of Medicine, in a work on cosmetic surgery, describing his own operation for reducing the nose to a prominent nose of an ambitious operator, writes:

"The nose is one of the most prominent parts of the face. Any marked deformity must be extremely conspicuous. The facial expression is entirely dependent upon it. Any deformity of it produces a repulsive, unintelligent or ridiculous appearance, according to the degree of departure from the normal. No woman can be really beautiful or attractive with a misshapen nose."
Usual deformations are: sunken-up nose, saddle-nose, flat nose, turned-up or pug nose, hook-shaped nose, humpback nose, and inordinately long or over-sized nose.

For some reason the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce seems to make it appear by publicity that the gates of the General Grant National Park are closed to visitors in automobiles between the hours of 6 a. m. and 9 p. m. I wish to state that this is a ridiculous error, and that not in a single instance since the first admission of automobiles into the General Grant National Park has any individual been denied this privilege. Besides it would be an utter impossibility to close the gates of the General Grant National Park, as the park has no gates or never has had. For the public's information of your vicinity please correct this erroneous publicity. The park is open to visitors at all times and

GIRL SLAYER IS AFRAID TO FACE MOTHER

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—Haunted through a sleepless night by the pale and beautiful face of his victim, Harry S. New Jr., 33, confessed slayer of his sweetheart, Freda Lesser, 20, today declared he would plead temporary insanity and throw himself on the mercy of the court when he faces trial on the murder charge.

"I'm not afraid of death," he said. "I'm only afraid of one thing and that is to face my mother."

New said that he had not slept during the night because his brain was tortured by a nightmare of the tragedy.

TOOK BODY TO POLICE.

The murder occurred in Topanga canyon early Saturday morning. After shooting the girl New lifted the body into the sedan in which they had been riding and according to it for three hours before going to the central police station, summoning a police officer to the machine, turning the body over to the police and confessing the crime.

"It is on my mind constantly," he mumbled. "All through the night I saw her face, white in death, just as it was after I shot her. I'd shut my eyes and when I'd open them again the face was there before me. It was horrible and I couldn't sleep. I shot her because she absolutely refused to marry me. She was to become the mother of my child."

POLICE BLAME NURSE.

While the slayer announced that his only defense would be the testimony of alienists to show that he was temporarily insane when he killed Miss Lesser, the police detectives assigned to the case concentrated their activities on a new angle.

The detectives sought to question a nurse who, New says, turned Miss Lesser against him by promising to relieve her condition of approaching motherhood. Detective Herman Cline said that there was a possibility that an arrest might be made and that he hoped to throw additional light on the murder motive by interviewing the nurse.

Mrs. Lulu Eger, New's mother, who claims to be the divorced wife of Senator Harry S. New of Indiana, will arrive in Los Angeles next Wednesday. She will immediately undertake a defense for him.

AFRAID TO FACE MOTHER.

"I'm afraid to face her," said New today. "I'm not afraid of the gallows or death or anything but to meet my mother. I fear this will kill her."

"I will plead temporary insanity. I will have a few alienists to testify for me and that is all. I will not deny the actual murder."

"Does that mean you will plead guilty?" he was asked.

New broke into tears and threw himself on the cot in his cell and did not answer.

"There is nothing left for me in life now," he wept.

Detective Cline stated that the police investigation of the case is practically completed except for the post mortem examination of the body tomorrow morning. He said that he was inclined to credit New's story that he shot the girl when she refused to marry him and scorned the thought of becoming the mother of his child.

FATHER MAY AID HIM.

Whether Senator Harry S. New of Indiana, whom the prisoner claims is his father, will aid New to escape the death penalty was an open question today. Senator New has announced that he has never recognized young New as his son.

Detective Cline said that he would ask the district attorney's office tomorrow morning to issue a complaint against New charging him with first degree murder. He said that to prove first degree murder premeditation must be proven.

MISS FREDA LESSER, fiancée of Harry S. New Jr., reproduced from a picture given by her to New and bearing the inscription, in her own handwriting, "With all my love.—Freda."

"New had plenty of time to premeditate when he reached for the revolver and drew it from its holster," said Cline. "It must have taken him nearly a minute to do this and that is long enough to satisfy the law."

MOTHER'S FAITH REMAINS.

"Don't let anyone say such a thing about my little girl, my baby," said Mrs. Lesser. "I believe that my daughter is innocent."

Utterly broken by the shock of her only child's tragic death, unable even to lift her head from her pillow, her body almost as pain racked as her soul, Mrs. Lesser's greatest grief seemed to be not the loss of that daughter, but the thought that anyone should believe the murderer's statement that the girl was expecting motherhood.

"It isn't true, it isn't true," she moaned again and again. "Don't let anyone believe that of my little daughter."

To Mrs. Lesser the dead girl was again only her baby, and that baby she would defend against the whole world if necessary. Her life having been taken from her, the mother instinct still clung to the only thing left to her, her belief in her daughter's innocence.

Hardly a tear did the sorrow-stricken woman shed; her grief was too deep for even that relief.

All day at her pretty home at 4499 North Griffin avenue, where she has watched each evening for the return from work of the daughter who never will come home again, she lay on her bed of suffering. Over and over she pondered the terrible loss that has come to her, and again and again she repeated the single thought that her daughter's name should stand untarnished before the world.

Mrs. Lesser's belief in her daughter is shared by all who knew the dead girl. Throughout the day and evening neighbors and friends came to extend their sympathy and to declare their faith in the Freda who they all had so dearly loved. One and all stated their belief that the murderer, having taken her life, sought only to safeguard himself by a lie against her fair name. One close friend of the family said:

"No one who ever knew Freda Lesser would ever believe that such a thing was true. She was just a sweet, innocent girl, far more intelligent than many a girl several years her junior. She always seemed to me more like a girl of 15 or 16 than 20. So full of fun was she, so light-hearted and laughing, loving and with the childlike sweetness that so many girls lose when they grow up. She was very bright and clever, and a good little business woman."

"The sweetest thing about the girl was her absolute devotion to her mother. Mrs. Lesser has been an invalid for some time and has had a great deal of sorrow, and these facts never were forgotten by her daughter. No matter what pleasure she wished to enjoy she was always ready to give it up if it would mean that her mother would be left at home alone."

"He was always jealous of her, although she gave him no cause for it. She was very attractive, but ever

'MILLIONAIRE' FIREMAN HURT TRYING RESCUE

Though he is known as "the millionaire fireman," Jerry Crum of the Oakland fire department today demonstrated that he is still a good fireman, when he suffered serious injuries in a thrilling attempt to rescue several women from an apartment house at Fruitvale avenue and Blossom street.

Jerry, who was overcome by smoke fumes and toppled from the top of a ladder as he was trying to enter a window, is undergoing an x-ray examination at Providence hospital. His leg is badly broken, his shoulder blade displaced and he has several bruises.

The fire, which destroyed the Fruitvale Mercantile company store, caused a damage of $5,000. Its origin is unknown.

The apartments are above the store. On their arrival the firemen quickly realized the danger of the occupants. Ladders were raised and Jerry Crum was the first man to climb to one of the windows.

Smoke poured out the window in thick clouds. Undaunted, the plucky "millionaire" as he is known by his public, stuck his head and chest in the smoke filled window but faltered. Then he pitched off the ladder and fell on the pavement below.

Jerry was rushed to Emergency hospital for first aid treatment. He was then taken to Providence hospital for more expert care.

Jerry Crum joined the Oakland department as an extra man in October 1910 and has been regarded as one of the most efficient and faithful firemen. He was put on as a "regular" in July 1917 and his work has been above reproach ever since.

Jerry was bequeathed $100,000 worth of Oakland property and securities by his father, when he was in the department. Notwithstanding his fortune, he refused to give up the game he loved. An affable and likable fireman, he holds the same place among his comrades now as he did before he became suddenly rich. Some of the oldest property in Oakland is owned by Crum.

The fire at the Fruitvale Mercantile company store was discovered early this morning. A fast run was made by the department. The store was a total loss. No other injuries were reported.

FIRE SWEEPING FOREST.

MISSOULA, Mont., July 7.—A fire swept through a forest of 2,000 acres in the Bitter Root forest eight miles west of Corvallis, is the chief concern of officials at the service headquarters. The fire is reported as being beyond control at present. Except for this fire, however, the situation was generally favorable, officials said.

since she has been engaged to him she hasn't even gone out with other men."

New was to have claimed Miss Lesser as his bride Saturday, according to the couple's original plans. The license had been obtained and the ceremony was to be held.

PLEADS TO SEE BODY.

New pleaded with the police today to be allowed to see the dead body of Miss Lesser. He said he wanted to see her before she was buried.

"I find myself saying at times, 'I think I'll go and see Freda,' " he told the detectives. "Oh, can't I see her now?"

New was permitted to view the remains of his dead sweetheart as soon as the inquest, which is scheduled for tomorrow, is over, the police said.

New today even expressed the belief that "Senator New would come to Los Angeles to conduct his defense in person. He told me to call on him if ever I were in trouble," New said.

Increasing nervousness characterized New's attitude in the last 24 hours and fears were entertained by the police that he might attempt suicide. For that reason a guard is being held in his cell night and day. Reports that he had attempted to beat out his brains against the bars of his cell yesterday were denied by the police who were with him throughout the day.

REFUSAL TO MARRY, CAUSE.

One change, which is striking influence on the outcome of the case was made by New yesterday in his story. Detective Cline, after half an hour's close questioning of New, announced that New had told him he shot Miss Lesser, not because she refused to become a mother and proposed to undergo an illegal operation, but because she had refused to marry him.

His signed statement made Saturday morning, however, still gives the motive of the murder the alleged desire to prevent the stain of such an operation on the name of the girl whom he had intended to marry.

If New persists in the elimination of the first motive for the crime, the question of the girl's condition, police say, will be determined more to satisfy relatives than as a material point in the case.

The plot of inexplicable tragedy has darkened the life of the mother of Freda Lesser for near six years. On November 2, 1913, Emil Lesser, the murdered girl's father, went to Venice and never came back again, nor was his body ever found.

Lesser had been a soldier in the Franco-Prussian war, once a German consul at Birmingham, Ala., and a leader in the local Sangerbund. They were not far from officials that he had taken this means of cutting himself off from things American in order to be able to return to Germany to fight for Germany. But this theory was never proved. Mrs. Lesser and her daughter could believe nothing less than that he was dead by drowning, and in due time his will was probated.

The life insurance companies in which he was heavily insured, however, refused to pay indemnities without absolute proof of his death. Four suits were begun, but the cases dragged along through the courts and the pathetic figure of Mrs. Lesser and her daughter became familiar sights in the county court house. The insurance companies contended that Lesser had caused to disappear that he was under surveillance by United States authorities as a suspected member of a group of German spies, and also in connection with a murder case in Alabama.

The Jingles in The Headlines

By Harve Westgate

At last the giant "34," that flew from Britain's distant shore, is anchored now and tied; but she encountered storm and rain, long ere she reached the shores of Maine, and heavy winds defied.

But those who braved the ocean foam, and flew three thousand miles from home, are ready now for more; and in the morning, "the 34," long ere you wake and start to yawn, they'll head for England's shore.

But as for me I'll never try to reach old Europe on the fly, and flit above the blue; for airships make too many slips, and I'm afraid of two-mile dips, and gas explosions, too.

Let those who like the flying game, and call big liners slow and tame, go up and take a soar; but as for me I'll stay on the fish, by heck, just as I've done before.

PHONE GIRLS PUT ON BATTLE ROYAL

"Traitor!"

"Not! None of your business anyway!"

Bliff!

A small blonde "packing a wallop" in the telephone exchange, a telephone strike breaker, and her "gentleman friend," a cluster of telephone girls strikers; more "gentleman friends," dance hall managers and the special "2588" detail of the Alameda police force, all played their parts last evening in a near riot at the Neptune beach dance hall.

Trouble had been brewing all afternoon, according to the story of the participants. The strikers declared that the particular strike-breaker was objected to because, they alleged, she had been chummy with the union's international officers, the "gentleman friend" and to be joined with them in the strike, while all the time she was really working for the telephone company.

In the big, air-polluted hall, at the big tank, at first, or a set among the colored umbrellas on the beach.

The row was averted, however, when the dance hall, just at "evening," as some wishful toner was chanting "My Dreamy Little Lotus Flower," a group of the strikers walked up to the suspected one and began to taunt her. She taunted back.

Suddenly, the small blonde took a step forward and let fly a wicked left. The other was good at assailing, and the strikers tried to counter with a right uppercut. The girls joined in a general melee.

The strikebreaker, alleged, was getting the worst of it. "Gentleman friend" stood first on one foot; then the other; hauled about and didn't seem to know just how to stop the dreadful carnage. "Gentleman friend" of the strikers came along, and they obliged the other "gentleman friend" by starting fistfights on their own account.

Dance hall attendants were quickly on the scene, but were powerless to separate the antagonists. Then the beach rakers were called in to sweep up the hairpins.

"Caltex" Scientifically Correct Bifocals

The placing of these newly invented improved double vision glasses before the eyes, wearing public created a popular demand for them almost instantaneously, particularly by those who have been wearing with difficulty the old style bifocals. "Caltex" One-piece Bifocals are ground from one piece of glass, combining reading and distance glasses in one. The superiority of "Caltex" over the double vision glasses is easily recognized—so invisible that no one knows you are wearing bifocals.

PHONE STRIKE SETTLEMENT NEAR, BELIEF

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Postmaster General Burleson today invited employees and managers of Pacific Coast telephone companies to submit their differences, which have resulted in a strike to the wire control board for arbitration.

Although actual settlement of the telephone strike is not expected until tomorrow, when mass meetings will be held on both sides of the bay, there are indications that a virtual agreement will be reached before tonight.

The central committee is to be expected momentarily from Washington the terms of the settlement as approved by the postoffice department. These will be submitted to the strikers at mass meetings tomorrow for acceptance or rejection.

WASHINGTON, July 7, TODAY.

An important meeting of strike leaders opened in San Francisco early today, with prospects that an important announcement would be forthcoming. In Oakland, officials of the electrical workers' and operators' unions said they were seriously confident that a satisfactory agreement will be reached within the next forty-eight hours.

Local 253 of the Electrical Workers has a special called meeting scheduled for this evening. It is reported that the vote of the union is desired on a plan to transfer money from one fund to another in aid of the electrical workers who have been on picket duty with the telephone girls strikers. The union already has appropriated money to help the striking girls. The girls will hold their regular meeting at the Pacific building this afternoon.

At tomorrow's sessions, the new terms will be presented as proposed at the Washington conference of telephone company officials and international representatives of the unions and Assistant Postmaster General Keons.

TERMS OF COMPROMISE.

The compromise follows a consideration of the offers here on the Coast by a committee representing the unions' international officers, the postoffice department and telephone company heads. This conference was held in Washington and is unofficially reported to have decided upon the basis of $8 a day as electrical workers' wage and $12 to $19 a week, the maximum reached in four years, for telephone operators, with retroactive pay since January 1.

Coast union representatives are ready, they report, to reject the compromise if it does not provide for retroactive pay and simultaneous expiration of the agreement with both operators and electrical workers.

The operators say they will not accept any agreement that does not provide for simultaneous expiration of agreements of the operators and electrical workers, that retroactive pay will be demanded, and that a reduction of the five-year period in which to attain a maximum wage must be stricken out.

The Washington terms, said to contain compromises by both sides, will probably be sent to the local union officials today by wire, to be ready for the meetings tomorrow on both sides of the bay.

COMPROMISE DENIED.

TACOMA, Wash., July 7.—Electrical workers and telephone operators denied that a compromise settlement had been reached between the strikers and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company as was rumored here. Strike officials declared that today would be a test of strength. Monday is the heaviest day of the week in the number of calls received and the service would "show up the strength of the strikers."

WIRE SENT BURLESON.

REIKELLEY, July 7.—An appeal to Postmaster-General Burleson to end the present telephone strike and pay the operators a living wage was telegraphed East today by Mayor Louis Bartlett, following a conference held yesterday by the Berkeley executive with representatives of the strikers and telephone company.

World End Near Is Prediction of Hawaiian Seeress

All the world is walking slowly up to the crater of the volcano of Kilauea, chanting strange songs, dancing "shimmies" and otherwise performing the last rites, because the destruction is soon to come.

That is the prophecy of the world's latest popular seeress. They are said to have swept the Hawaiian Islands with her gloomy mysticism. Word of her has been brought to San Francisco Bay by Chester A. Doyle, official Japanese interpreter in Hawaii.

She is "Josephine," and but 15 years old, it is said. She was born in Honolulu, in the home of Jesse Makinai, within a block of King street, Honolulu's busiest thoroughfare. Her followers are said to number thousands.

Her prophecy that has made the biggest hit is that the Hawaiian islands are to be entirely destroyed. The Kilauea volcano, made famous in the play, "The Bird of Paradise," and that thereafter the whole world will be devoured by a pestilence.

STORM-BEATEN CREW RESCUED IN MID-OCEAN

How the gallant ship Henry T. Scott, a familiar craft on the Oakland waterfront, saved the lives of Captain A. Sanders, in command of the ill-fated vessel Mabel Davis and twelve of his crew, is told in letters which have reached Captain John Johnson in Seattle from C. C. Campbell, chief engineer of the Scott.

The Mabel Davis, in mid-Atlantic was storm-battered, waterlogged and ready to take her last plunge when she was sighted by the crew of the Scott, en route from New York to Hull, England, with a cargo of lumber. For eleven days the officers and men had been battling in the heavy seas. The Davis was nearly on the point of foundering when the rescue party sailed over the horizon. The crew had already abandoned hope of saving themselves. They had been continuously at the pumps for days. The sea was blowing hard and the sea running high. The Scott was kept in the lee of the sinking craft. The captain ordered life lines and life buoys thrown when within 100 fathoms of the Davis. Eventually they were hooked aboard the liner. Captain Sanders and his men, who were half-drowned and utterly spent, through the heavy seas after they had fastened the lines to their life packets. There were no fatalities in the shipwreck. The Davis, however, is a total loss. The thrilling rescue was performed May 10. The Scott, with her double crew, arrived at her destination in the Hull port June 24.

Finger-Print Is Clew to Burglar

A pair of fingerprints, on the window pane of the Greenwood home, scene of the Greenwood bomb outrage, photographed under a microscopic lens by Police Photographer Frank Paulson, is the clew by which Lester Lewis, supposed "house paper burglar," is being hunted by the police as the burglar who attempted entrance to the Greenwood home a week ago.

Lewis was arrested three days ago, as the supposed "house paper burglar," who practiced by pasting paper over glass windows to prevent the glass shattering and then broke windows to enter homes. His fingerprints were classified by Paulson and compared with others. They were found to match the prints on the Greenwood window.

"Woman Who Waits" Is Griffith Theme

LILLIAN GISH who plays "True Heart Susie" this week at the Kinema.

What sort of girls do men marry? Do they choose the plain, practical minded, girl, sweet in their unselfishness? Or do they choose the Fluffies who doesn't know a biscuit butter from a can-opener, but in faintly deal of sorrow, and these facts never were forgotten by her daughter. No matter what pleasure she wished to enjoy she was always ready to give it up if it would mean that her mother would be left at home alone.

too deep for even that relief. All day at her pretty home at 4499 North Griffin avenue, where she has watched each evening for the return from work of the daughter who never will come home again, she lay on her bed of suffering. Over and over she pondered the terrible loss that has come to her, and again and again she repeated the single thought that her daughter's name should stand untarnished before the world.

Mrs. Lesser's belief in her daughter is shared by all who knew the dead girl. Throughout the day and evening neighbors and friends came to extend their sympathy and to declare their faith in the Freda who they all had so dearly loved. One and all stated their belief that the murderer, having taken her life, sought only to safeguard himself by a lie against her fair name. One close friend of the family said:

"No one who ever knew Freda Lesser would ever believe that such a thing was true. She was just a sweet, innocent girl, far more intelligent than many a girl several years her junior. She always seemed to me more like a girl of 15 or 16 than 20. So full of fun was she, so light-hearted and laughing, loving and with the childlike sweetness that so many girls lose when they grow up. She was very bright and clever, and a good little business woman."

"The sweetest thing about the girl was her absolute devotion to her mother. Mrs. Lesser has been an invalid for some time and has had a great deal of sorrow, and these facts never were forgotten by her daughter. No matter what pleasure she wished to enjoy she was always ready to give it up if it would mean that her mother would be left at home alone."

Best Mermaids Will Appear in Del Monte Meet

Frances Cowells Schroth Will Be There to Defend Title

DEL MONTE, Cal., July 7. — One of the California features of the aquatic season will be the girls' swimming championships at Del Monte on July 18, 19 and 20. The preliminary events on the first two days will be staged in the picturesque open-air Roman Plunge and on the last day the finals will be contested in the Del Monte bathhouse at Monterey bay.

A full program of events to include some special feature stunts such as a balloon race, the will of the wind and blindfold race will be staged for the amusement of the swimming enthusiasts who will be on hand from all sections of the coast.

Frances Cowells Schroth, holder of many records, will be on hand to defend her laurels. A week ago the attractive mermaid established three new records and is counting on making further assaults on the record books.

Nine or ten other fast girl swimmers will try conclusions with the champion. Dorothy Burns of Los Angeles and Mrs. Claire Calligan Pinney, formerly of Philadelphia, are expected to put in an appearance.

Robert Dodd, president of the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, will personally have charge of the officials at Del Monte, under the direction of Sports Manager Fred A. Turner, in order to assure the sanction of any fast marks that are established.

The California girl swimmers have been showing remarkable improvement in the past two years and their races today are always looked forward to with much interest. The swimming feature here this month will take its place as one of the attractions of the busy Del Monte sports schedule.

Boston won from Brooklyn in the first inning by scoring six runs. The Dodgers collected four in nine, winning.

San Jose Bears Are Too Fast for Feds of North Beach

The San Jose Bears entertained the North Beach Federals on the San Jose lot by handling them on a 31 to 3 beating to take back to San Francisco. The Bears had their batting line up, showing mostly in the pitcher, Lamara, shortstop for the Bears, connected for three hits and played a fine game in the field. Barreau played for the Bears, and after the first few innings he was unobtainable. The Bears grabbed a three-run lead in the second inning, but the soon after got to the slants of Pitcher Kelly and had the game checked in the first inning.

Next Sunday the San Jose Bears will entertain Val Vazquez St. Dominics of San Francisco. The score:

Best Tractors Defeat S. F. Elks At San Leandro

Art Schimpff Hurls Fine Game, While Johnny Gillespie Rests

Johnny Gillespie, after pitching Technical High School to the state championship, pitched a fine game for the Tractors yesterday, as he would be in shape for the big game which the Tractors have for next Sunday with the Shasta Elks. So, in the box for the Tractors when they met the Shasta Elks at San Leandro yesterday, was the old reliable Art Schimpff. Well, again we can write about Artie being the like champion in the pinch. The San Francisco Elks never had a chance to defeat the Tractors with the veteran hurler holding them to seven widely scattered hits and not letting them have their only run in the ninth inning when Kelly lifted a ball over the left field fence.

CAPT. WAYMIRE AGAIN IN THREE WITH WALK CLUTCH.

Lee Waymire, captain of the C. J. Best Tractors, managed to play a whole of game at second base and the score book still is able to show that Lee has not made an error since joining the Tractors a couple of months ago. Not only did Waymire do some nice fielding for the Tractors in yesterday's contest, but he got two hits that each helped in scoring runs. In the first inning Clotcher for the Tractors walked and was forced at second by Bankhead. After Matthews was an infield out, Danzig was hit by a pitched ball, and the bases were full when Mulcahy was safe on Worth's error. Lee Waymire got his first hit to score Bankhead, and Mulcahy forced Lee at second for the last out.

The Tractors made another in the fifth, a walk to Schimpff, Clotcher's sacrifice and George Matthews' triple turning the trick. In the sixth inning Waymire doubled after one was out, reached third on Sullivan's error and was squeezed home by Alameda. Clotcher's single, a walk to Bankhead, Mulcahy's infield hit and McGuire's error gave the Tractors their fourth run in the seventh. After Evans was out in the ninth Kelly lifted the ball over the left field fence for the only Elks run. The score:

Fans and Players Flock to Kinema to See Films of Game

Bush ball players and fans flocked by the hundreds to the Kinema theater yesterday and last night to witness The TRIBUNE-Kinema Weekly films. Featured in these films is the baseball game played a week ago yesterday at San Leandro between the C. J. Best Tractors and the Shasta Elks of Oakland. The film shows every feature of the game, including the play at the plate in the ninth inning which almost caused a riot, but later resulted in the game being stopped by Mayor Polton of San Leandro. Also is shown Jack Baumgarten and Umpire Louie Larnie ready to swap punches, as well as the comical routing by the Shasta fans. It is one of the greatest films to be turned out of any amateur baseball battle.

'STUBBY' KRUGER Wins 500-Yard P. A. Swim

Kruger covered the distance in 6:15.15 minutes, which establishes a record for a 25-yard tank and which is but six seconds behind the record established in 1915 by "Ludy" Langer.

Pitcher for Espee Nine Going Great

The railway boys of the Southern Pacific yard are certainly proud of their new pitcher, Red Nelson, who, recently discharged from the army, has set up an enviable record for them in his three starts. That a "joker," concealed in the proposed new "Rules of Order" offered for the conduct of the city council by Commissioner Fred Soderberg, would give any three members of the council the right to vote to fine and exclude from their meetings the mayor or any two commissioners, is the declaration of Mayor John L. Davis today. He announced that he would vigorously oppose the Soderberg proposal, filed with the council.

The new rules, according to the mayor, conform in the main to the old rules, save that a clause in them takes the power now held by the mayor to preserve order, from the rules, and vests it in the vote of any three commissioners. Under the old rules provision is made for imposing a fine on any commissioner who uses loud and offensive language and who will not respond to being called to order by the chair, the rules providing that he may be fined forty dollars by the chair and excluded from the council chamber until this is paid.

"But the joker in Soderberg's rules is that it provides that three members of the council may vote to impose a fine on any other, even the mayor," said Davis. "In other words, if three members of the council are angry at one of my rulings, or perhaps at talks made by myself and Commissioner Bacus, for instance, they could vote to fine us and probably exclude us from the council chamber. Then they'd have things their own way. The rule has never been used, but I see the opportunity, all right."

Davis holds that the rule would be

MAYOR AND LION
CHIEF IN FILMS

Mayor Davis and Jesse Robinson, President of the Lions Club are two of the popular "leading men" appearing in this week's issue of the TRIBUNE Kinema Weekly, the motion picture of local events which are causing so much interest in the daily showing at the Kinema Theatre. The mayor was caught by the camera as he was bidding good-bye to Robinson on his way to Chicago to bring the convention to Oakland in 1920.

Baseball fans are showing particular interest in the pictures of the "Push" league game between the teams of the Shasta Limited and the Peat Tractor company which ended in a riot due to a dispute over the umpire's decision. The pictures show just what happened, and will decide the point in question.

The ceremonies which marked the farewell of Oakland to old John Farley, an event which is of special interest just now, Daniel Best who built the first tractor in California, makes his bow in the movies, and San Leandro's celebration of the Festival of the Holy Ghost complete the current issue of the local news weekly.

FOUR EASTBAY
UNIONS HEED
MOONEY CALL

Three of the eight carpenters' unions in the East Bay district, one plumbers' local and a few individuals were all the representatives of organized labor who took part today in the Mooney sympathetic strike, according to unofficial reports to the Central Labor Council.

"We know of no concerted strike," said William A. Spooner, secretary of the Central Labor Council.

With regard to the carpenters' locals, S. W. Lore, carpenters' official connected with the Building Trades Council, said that he did not know of any carpenters being on strike, although three locals had voted for the Bay Point Union Construction company, Moore's, Union plant of the Bethlehem Steel, Union's and other shipyards the same as usual. Scattered individuals had quit work.

J. C. Carroll, business agent of the Boilermakers' union, said that no action endorsing the strike had been taken by the Boilermakers, and that the men were on duty at the Bay Point Union Construction company, Moore's, Union plant of the Bethlehem Steel, Union's and other shipyards the same as usual. Scattered individuals had quit work.

According to E. J. Wolff, secretary of Boilermakers' 233, a majority of those voting on the question of a sympathetic strike favored it, but there were only 809 voters and the by-laws require that 1000 vote before a strike is made official.

The Electricians voted some time ago to join the strike but at a meeting about five days ago rescinded this action.

Today was the first time that an accurate idea of the extent of the strike was obtained. Although it went into effect July 4, that day, Saturday and Sunday were holidays and all plants were closed anyway.

Tomorrow is the last day of the strike, which was announced to last five days.

TACOMA WORKERS STRIKE. TACOMA, Wash., July 7.—The first big demonstration in the Tacoma strike yesterday came at 7 o'clock this morning, when 3,000 shipyard workers employed in the Todd Steel Shipyard refused to go to work on the first work day since the strike.

The workers, all carrying their lunch pails, got as far as Eleventh and A streets where the municipal cars leave for the yards and then stopped after the Tacoma Mooney defense committee had started a demonstration.

Workers who braved the crowd and went to work were hoisted.

The Tacoma yards at 9 o'clock reported that 50 per cent of the workers were on the job, and that the gates were closed to the remainder.

"There was much grumbling among many of the workers. The report went broadcast that as a result of the strike action the Todd Construction and Drydock Co. would close down the big plant for sixty days and after that reopen on an 'open shop' basis."

This could not be confirmed at the Tacoma yards, although it was stated the gates had been closed.

CLAIM MANY OUT. BY UNITED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Half a million workers are on strike throughout the nation today in protest for a "red trial" for Mooney, according to the International Workers' Defense League.

Selig Schubert of the league, reports painters, custom tailors and glassworkers are out on the five day strike. Originally, it was expected 14 unions would walk out here in the protest.

Thousands are out in Chicago and more are joining them hourly, the league reports. Mrs. Thos. Mooney is holding a number of meetings which are bringing out still more men to the strikers' ranks. It is stated, however, that the Tacoma workers are staging effective demonstrations, according to the league.

U.S. PROBE OF
J. B. DENSMORE
ACTS STARTED

The investigation initiated by Congressman Blandon of Texas into the United States employment bureau and its director-general, John B. Densmore, was transferred to San Francisco, it became known today, with the receipt of a request to obtain affidavits concerning Densmore's case but the Angel Island immigration station graft scandal, in which Densmore, while solicitor-general of the Department of Labor, directed the investigation.

The now famous "immunity letter," which was written by Densmore November 11, 1917, to M. J. Ferguson, father of Robert T. Ferguson, an employee of the immigration station, who was indicted and who, after testifying against others involved, was made the subject of an application for executive clemency has been obtained by Congressman Blandon's representative.

Affidavits from Agathon L. Hillemeier, whose position was similar to that of Ferguson as far as the indictment and his use as a government witness were concerned, have been obtained with a view of using them as an expose of Densmore's methods while in California. Other affidavits have been obtained, it is said, from persons who assisted Densmore in obtaining the evidence which he used in his alleged expose of malfeasance in office alleged to have been committed by District Attorney Charles M. Fickert and others.

Densmore was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury, but left San Francisco with his principal assistants, George Parsons and Ignatius McCarty, and his uncle, Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, refused the request of Governor Stephens to permit service, upon Densmore or the others, or to order their return to this city.

Music and Dance Sisters;
Teachers to See RhythmMusicians

How close in rhythm and line is the dance to music, members of the California Music Teachers' Association will learn tomorrow afternoon on the University of California campus. A chief portion of their convention program will be given there and included in it will be a specially devised dance by a group of trained girls in Faculty Glade.

The music teachers are in convention this week in San Francisco. Many of those in the list of speakers are East Bay musicians. Mme. Sofia Newland, Neustadt of Oakland is president of the association and chairman of the convention.

William W. Caruth of Oakland is secretary. A masque by Professor Arthur Farwell of Berkeley was given its first presentation at the exposition auditorium across the bay last evening and received a gratifying reception.

The whole afternoon and evening program tomorrow will be given in Berkeley, the only session of the convention outside of San Francisco. The afternoon program will begin at 1:30 o'clock in Faculty Glade, and to the public is invited. It will open with numbers by a quintet of woodwind instruments.

MISS MARGARET ARNOLD, who will be one of the dancers in Faculty Glade at the University of California tomorrow afternoon.

The sylvan charm will be further enhanced by the dancing by pupils of Anita Peters Wright, including Miss Margaret Arnold, and other talented girls. The dance figures have been specially devised for this occasion.

Following the program there will be a discussion of the question of giving credit in the public schools for music work done with private teachers. The lead in this matter has been taken by the County Federation of Teachers, of which William Edwin Chamberlain of Berkeley is chairman, and County Superintendent of Schools George W. Fick. The principal speaker will be H. E. Wilson, superintendent of schools at Berkeley. Vocal numbers by Mrs. J. Rollin Fitch and piano numbers by A. C. Freeman.

The evening's program will be given in the Greek Theater. Signor Antonio de Grassi, violinist, and Mrs. Vernice Brand will contribute to the program. Chorus from the recent "Elizah" production will be presented under the direction of Paul Steindorff.

STREET CARS
IN MIDNIGHT
SWITCH CRASH

In a midnight street car crash last night at Ninth street and Santa Clara avenue, Alameda, several passengers were slightly injured by flying glass and general shock, but none was hurt seriously. Mrs. Emma Ulrich of 914 Santa Clara avenue, and George Peroles of 577 Seventeenth street, Oakland, were taken to the Emergency hospital and attended for surface cuts and abrasions, and later were taken to their homes.

The collision took place at the "switchback" recently installed at Ninth and Santa Clara where the street car company constructed a "Y" leading north on Ninth street and connected with the south Ninth street and the Santa Clara avenue cars. The track is used for switching back the trailer cars used in transporting the beach and shipyard crowds. A Santa Clara avenue car struck the switching cars. Much glass was shattered and the passengers were given a severe shaking up, as well as being showered with flying particles of broken glass.

Mrs. A. Reynolds, a nurse, on her way home from her work, telephoned to the police headquarters news of the accident and said that several persons were slightly hurt. Mrs. Ulrich and Peroles were placed in an auto and taken to the hospital. Mrs. Reynolds then busied herself with looking after scratches and cuts sustained by several other passengers.
